

Hello!

I'm Lilah, a photographer and photo editor. I photoshoot families, women, fashion, models, events. It's my work and passion. For the past ten years, I've been photographing weddings of all sizes, with an approach that focuses on capturing the natural intimacy of a couple in love and honors the real stuff. When I photograph weddings, my goal is to find these same connections and wonderful people in my clients lives and document how much love there is between them.

About me

I have loved photography since I was a teenager growing up in the San Francisco Bay Area, plastering fashion spreads from W Magazine all over my bedroom walls. I went on to work in the fashion industry in Milan, Italy for several years and then lived in Paris, France, before coming to Montana in the early 90's to settle down and raise a family. I love to play tennis, travel and enjoy everything beautiful Montana has to offer with my husband, our family, and two West Highland Terriers, Baxter and Rue. My approach is unobtrusive while giving gentle direction only when it's needed. I'm inspired by moments of delight and connection happening all around me, and because of this, I love to just step back and capture you at your happiest. I'm a very firm believer that the meaningful moments in life are the ones not planned and the photos taken when you're not aware you're being photographed will be your most cherished ones.

Simplicity requires a two-step process. First, we must invest time and energy to discover what stirs us as human beings, what makes our hearts sing, and what brings us joy. Then, we must proceed to create the life that reflects the unique people we truly are. This is the heart and soul of simplicity.

Photography is a way of feeling, of touching, of loving. What you have caught on film is captured forever... It remembers little things, long after you have forgotten everything.
